

Home / Tuning / This BMW i3 looks quite aggressive

This BMW i3 looks quite aggressive

Tuning | October 5th, 2014 by Horatiu Boeriu

3 comments

- いいね! 87
- Tweet 14
- g+ 1
-

From Japan comes one of the first modded BMW i3 we have seen. Dubbed BMW EVO i3, the electric vehicle gets an aggressive body kit ...

From Japan comes one of the first modded BMW i3 we have seen.

Modded BMW EVO i3, the electric vehicle gets an aggressive body kit that turns the car into a racecar-looking machine rather than a city car.

The EVO i3 comes with flared fenders, a completely redesigned front bumper with large air intakes (not sure for what), rear diffuser and plenty of carbon fiber around the car.

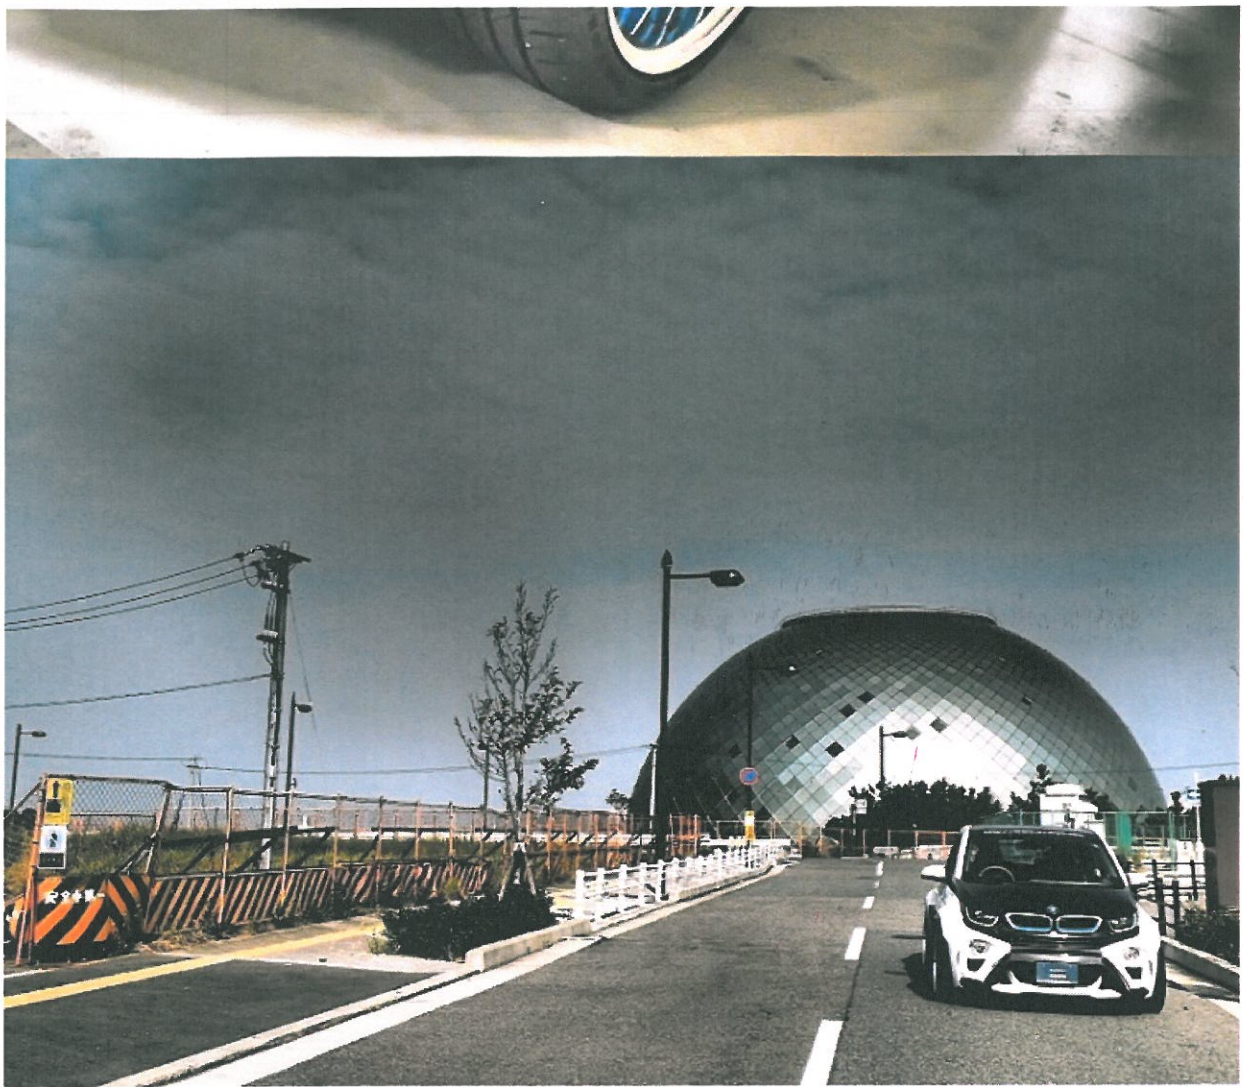

<http://www.bmwblog.com/2014/10/05/bmw-i3-looks-quite-aggressive/>

2014/10/09

A set of custom wheels in blue and gunmetal in 20 inch size just complete the overall dynamic design.

No other details are unknown at this time, but we expect to see similar projects in the future, even if the market for it is quite small.

SEE PHOTO GALLERY

TAGS: BMW i3 tuning, BMW tuning, tuning